Loyola: a World of Change, Yet Unchangeable

OUR WORLD is constantly changing. Change is the ruler of customs, the lord of world events, the spouse of time, the master of the material world. Change has even seeped into the external aspects of our religion.

Loyola 1967 was in the midst of change. Its program of expansion and development looked toward the future. And yet, as a Catholic University, Loyola continued to foster a respect in its students for those things which can never change. These are the principles and ideals which stand in defiance of change, facing leeward and ignoring the winds of time. External truths which nurture the soul, and brace the body and mind.

Daily Masses were held for the student body in Holy Name of Jesus Church. Seniors and other students were encouraged to take part in closed retreats. The campus Sodality charged the student to actively participate in their Christian religion.

And so it went throughout the year—as Loyola continued to provide its students with a glimpse of changeless things, allowing them to peek at eternity.

Loyola: An Appetite to Inquire

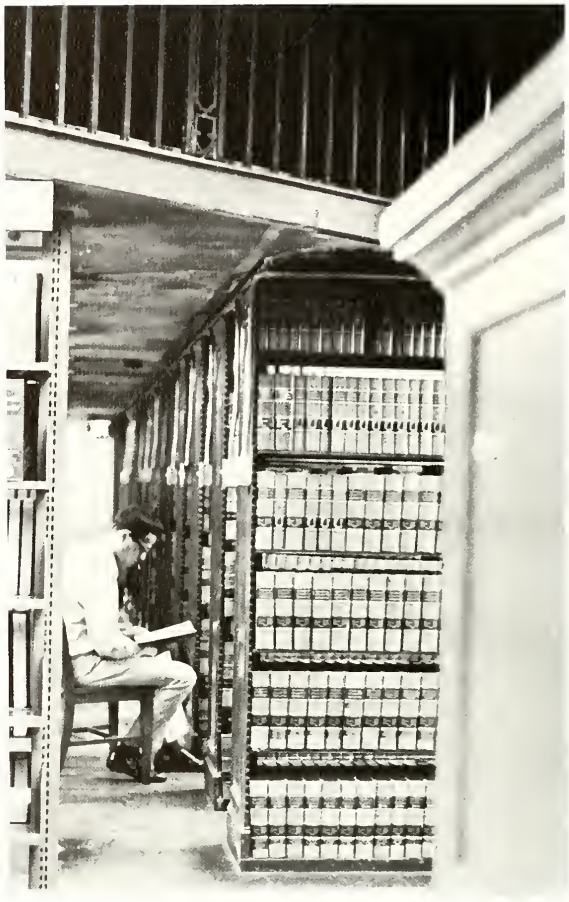
LOYOLA in its fifty-fifth year continued to serve its students heaping helpings of knowledge. The student with the hearty appetite was, as always, the one who knew that the university provided a variety of facilities for the dispensing of knowledge. The student going places made use of those facilities.

The University was the teacher, ready to clarify the confusions and doubts which inevitably piled up while plodding through a difficult chapter.

It was the instruments, utensils, and machinery, allowing the curious to actualize equations in a test tube.

All of which made the University most of all an opportunity—to investigate what was unexplored, to muse about what had been the unponderable, to answer where once there had been no questions.

Loyola: Research and Testing; a Bridge To the Future

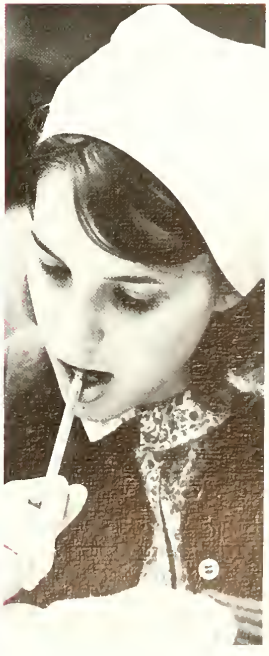


A Time for Reckoning

PERIODICALLY, the student's quest for knowledge is called to a halt and he is asked to display both the quantity and quality of the knowledge he has gained. This routine in the educational process comes regularly at the middle and end of each semester in the form of exams and at less predictable times under the guise of tests and quizzes.

Exam time is a traumatic experience in most students' academic lives. It means little sleep, quarts of coffee, and a cleared mind prepared for endless hours of study.

Exams and tests to most students are nothing but mental regurgitation. However, they do give the student a chance to pause and evaluate what he has learned, to see where he is deficient and to decide where his efforts must be concentrated.



Loyola:
Animated Happiness

SOMEONE once theorized that man is a social animal. Probably the easiest place to prove this hypothesis would have been Loyola's campus.

A walk through Loyola's snackbar would provide him with invaluable evidence for his theory. Dental students and med-techs sipping softdrinks together; fraternity brothers chatting intelligently (if not intellectually) about present U.S. foreign policy; coeds eyeing the newest engagement ring above snatches of gossip.

At night our sociologist could have filled a notebook with facts. Parties and animated happiness abounded; dances were crammed back-to-back on every schedule.

The evidence indeed was strong; and from APO movies to sorority meetings, Loyolans were seemingly ready to close the case.

Brotherhood: Richer Life

GREEK LETTERS from Alpha to Omega, arranged i varying combinations, spell out different philosophie of life on Loyola's campus. Although they all differ i their particulars, every Greek organization has as it basic goal the social and academic improvement of it members and at the same time the betterment of th University.

Fraternities and sororities offer their members a fulle life through brotherhood or sisterhood, and most Greek find in their respective organizations those intangible which are hard to discern from the outside and equally hard to express even from the inside.

Times of Togetherness

Loyola:
Beyond the Routine

IT'S HIGHLY improbable that any Loyolan suffered from boredom this year, because, as in the past, extra-curricular activities were easily found on the campus. The Wolf's Den provided a variety of entertainment for the students; and, for those more intellectually designed, there were innumerable films and lectures to attend.

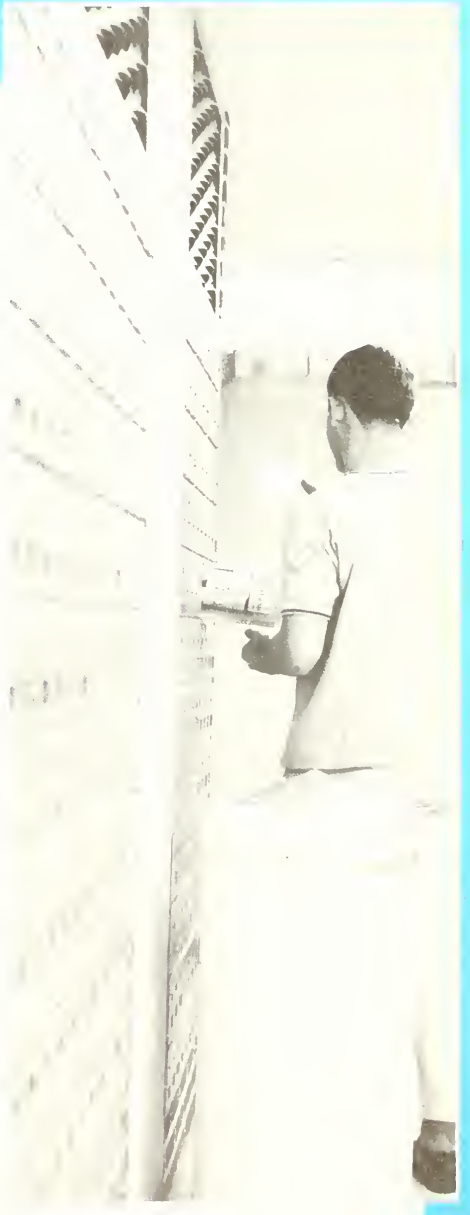
With fraternity rush pushed back to the second semester, the early months of the year were taken up with dances and parties. In December, Sally Droppleman reigned over Homecoming Week. Blue Talent Night enjoyed the same success as in the past.

Politics played an important role again this year, with students debating campus issues and discussing national policy.

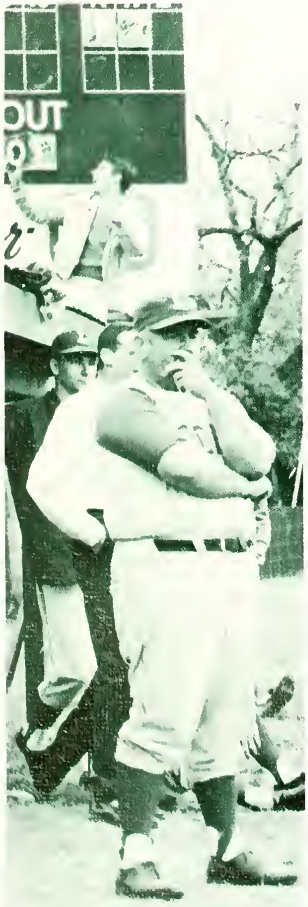
Home Away From Home

TO THE MANY students of Loyola who live in Chicago, or Dallas, or Crystal Springs during the summer, "home" during the school year is no longer, as Robert Frost insisted, "the place where, when you go there, they have to take you in." It is, instead, Biever Hall. Or Buddig Hall, if you are of the feminine gender.

Home is modern, well-equipped, usually noisy, located in an exclusive high-rent district, sometimes pleasant, brand new (Buddig was completed only this year), sexually segregated, and, above all, away from HOME.

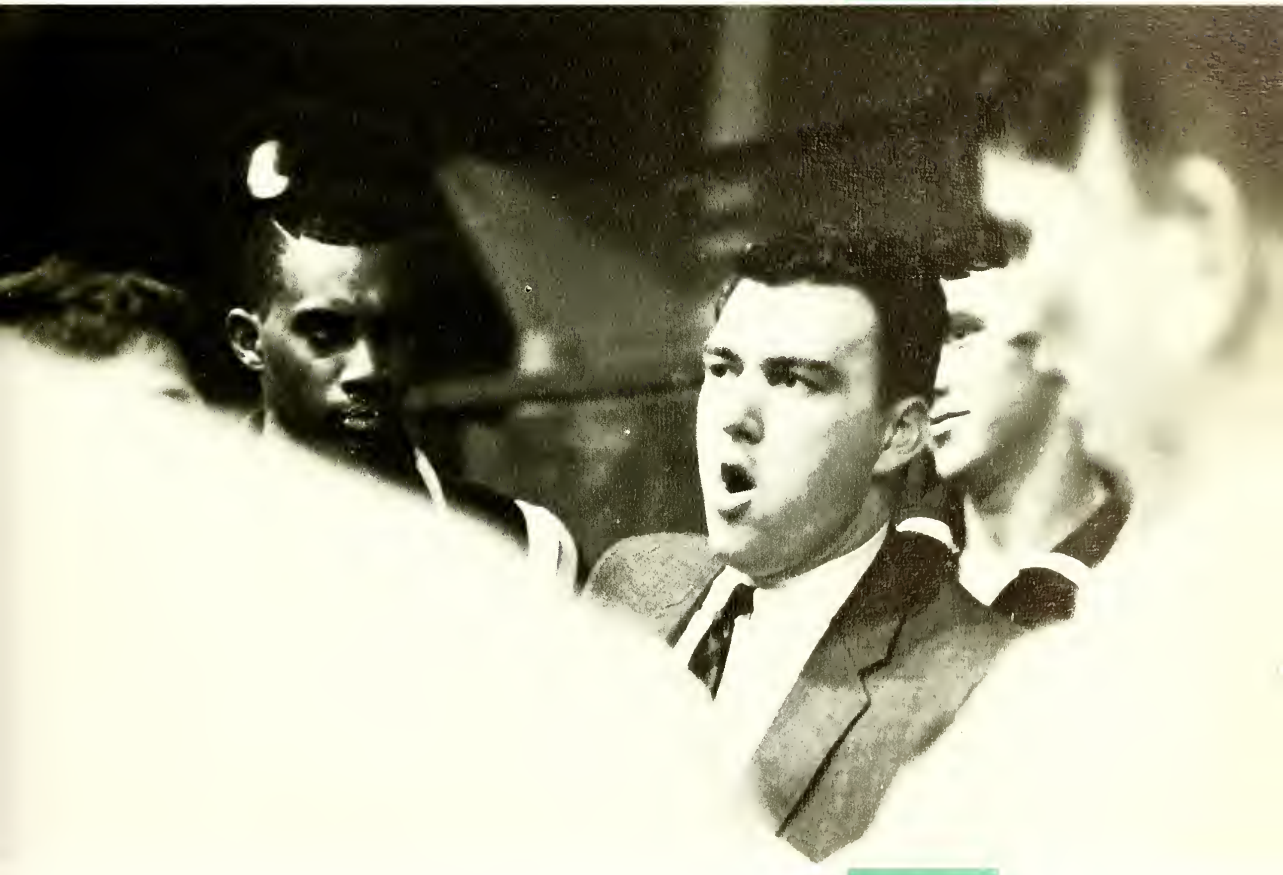


Sports:
Coaches, Players, Fans — All A Part of Loyola



LOYOLA has always realized the importance of physical culture and fitness in the development of the full person. The tradition of sportsmanship and athletic endeavor has been firmly entrenched for years.

The university's intramural program crams the student-athlete's year with swimming, bowling, wrestling, track, and of course, basketball, softball and football. Furthermore, intercollegiate sports enable most students to watch fellow Loyolans win at tennis, basketball, softball, and golf.



Spirit: More than Just a Song

SPIRIT is more than just singing the fight song at a basketball game. It comes from the roots of the student's soul and is expressed by his participation in various functions of the university.

Demonstrations of spirit are evident by the crowds at basketball games, the interest in the welfare of the teams, and the overall enthusiasm generated by a winning team. Spirit is intangible yet the evidence of its presence is everywhere on Loyola's campus.

Loyola:
A Mellowing Maturity Achieved Through Involvement and Exchange

Not a Destination, But A Milestone

OFTEN before the student realizes the change, he is no longer the wide-eyed, bumbling freshman he once was. He has become, as a result of his four years at Loyola, a mature and educated individual who is morally and intellectually prepared to take his place in the world.

The diploma is more than just a piece of paper that states that the student has successfully completed the required course of study. It represents four long years of planning, preparation, and study and is the recipient's ticket to the world. Graduation is the goal of every freshman and its attainment does not mark a destination, but rather a milestone in life.

Let It Be Recorded

YEARBOOKS being among those collegiate institutions left behind by those who dedicate themselves to the dissemination of truth (tradition, gossip and/or scandal), it is fitting that we record:

During 1966-67, Gerald's ceased to be the place to go as frequently, much less to be seen; "mini" was attached to anything that walked, wiggled or bounced with a minimum of covering and maximum of gusto; the dean of women gave all freshmen coeds lectures on proper seating posture in the snack bar (who cared?); and "grafitti" became the literary form to practice and read.

Loyola began its campaign for excellence (again), this time pushing fund requests far, building projects into reality, and bank accounts into the red. After 2½ years of construction the girls dormitory, affectionately known as the "ghetto," was completed, including the sealing up of a workman in the walls, with a smile on his face and a cask of amontillado. Beards became the in-thing to wear on campus if you were a publishing Ph. D. And Fang began to suffer frustration pangs.

If you were draftable, you didn't talk about it; if you weren't you laughed at the silence (or joined the campus security); if you drank any of the beer served in the snack bar, you didn't say anything.

Among the things that died during the year were The Thespians, The Wolf's Den, and radio WVSU. Rising from the ashes were The New Loyola Theater, a Rathskeller and a red faced station manager in charge of radio WOLF (the latter, reminding one of the screaming Phoenix with a microphone in his hand).

Dental School died, but managed to resurrect itself three months later, for at least another year.

It was the year Talent Night audiences said "Why???," and the year the judges said "JUST BECAUSE!!!"; Walter Tchopitoulas, dressed in his cap and gown (wearing white socks) graduated from BA "mag cum yatley"; and DA Jim Garrison—much to our chagrin—didn't investigate Loyola for subversive activities, while certain philosophy and Poly Sci professors smiled.

The best thing we can say about 1966-67 is: We finished it, met our publication's deadline, then went to visit the grave of King Kong (in the Sierra Madres) whom some people believed died to save the world.

For those who care to remember the year . . . please do so. For us it happened . . . it's over.

Student Council

THE STUDENT COUNCIL serves as the main link between the students and the administration. It is the sounding board of student opinion and the means of self government for the student body.

Under the capable leadership of Bob Perez, the council took great strides in the direction of greater student-administration understanding and co-operation during the 1966-67 academic year.

Besides functioning as the governing body of the students, it gave its members practical experience in the democratic principles of self-government.

Some activities sponsored for the student body included the Halloween Dance, an appearance by the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony and a special blood bank. The council also succeeded in getting the dress regulations revised.

Kappa Beta Gamma

Kappa Beta Gamma Social Sorority, Loyola's youngest sorority, completed its sixth year on campus.

As in the past, KBG was active socially. The girls could be found enjoying themselves at their monthly parties, at their April House Parties, held annually on the sunny Mississippi Gulf Coast, the campus-wide Kappa Kome-All, and their alumnae and actives' card parties. Highlights of KBG's social season were the Christmas party, Hawaiian Luau, and the Winter and Spring Formals. During Mardi Gras, the sisters had a "Kappa Kitchen" at which they sold cake and candy.

Along with Alpha Delta Gamma Fraternity, the girls erected a display for homecoming entitled "Brew the Bengals", which predicted the stewing of the LSU Tigers.

Athletically, the KBGs were first in basketball and second in baseball.

The Sisters of Phi Phi Phi welcomed 29 new members into their sisterhood during this, their ninth year on the Loyola campus.

Tri Phi was once again very active in charity affairs. The girls raised money for both the Ceylon and South American missions. And during the Christmas holidays, they treated orphans to the local Repertory Theater.

Parties and other social activities were also numerous. A partial list includes their Christmas Party, Parents Party, Pledge-Member Party and Picnic, Spring and Winter Formals, their University-wide "Broomstick Brawl" Halloween Dance, the April houseparties on the Gulf Coast, and of course, their traditional and famous Soiree at Your Father's Mustache in the French Quarter.

"Tyger, Tyger, Burning Bright" was the theme of the Tri Phi-SAK homecoming decorations in the Loyola horseshoe. In the display, the LSU Tigers were the victims of a huge torture chamber set in an eerie medieval castle.

Tri Phi's could be found as ROTC sponsors, on the Homecoming Court, on the Student Council, and in general helping Loyola provide for its co-eds a well rounded college life.

Tri Sigma, rich in tradition, was founded in 1898 and has 65 chapters throughout the United States.

The oldest sorority on Loyola's campus, the Gamma Eta chapter initiated 29 new members this year.

Ever active socially, the sisters filled the year with their monthly parties, Winter and Spring Formals, April Houseparties, and their "Cage-In" Dance.

The girls captured a third-place banner in Blue Key Talent Night competition for their skit satirizing "Officer Tessie." During homecoming the Tri Sigs recommended "Sleighing the Tigers" in their decoration constructed with Beggars Fraternity. Tri Sigma also participated fully in the co-ed intramural program.

BARBARA SEDLACEK
President

The Alpha Beta Chapter of Theta Phi Alpha filled its ninth year on the Loyola campus with social events, charitable projects, and spirit.

The Sisters began the year with their annual university-wide September Send-Off; then enjoyed their theme parties, including their Halloween Party, Seafood Party, and Crazy-Hats Party. The highlights of their social calendar were the Winter and White Rose Formals.

Theta Phi's charity activities included participation in the Ceylon Mission Drive, Glenmary Mission projects, their annual orphan's picnic. They also won the Helen Quinlan Ryan award for rendering outstanding service to the community during Hurricane Betsy.

TPA garnered a bevy of trophies this year, including the coveted Blue Key Talent Night first place banner for skit competition. Otherwise, the girls tied for first place in coed intramural competition, teamed with Upsilon Beta Lambda Fraternity to create an outstanding homecoming display, and were honored by having members chosen as Campus Queen, maids, and ROTC sponsors. Furthermore, Theta Phi proved that beauty and brains do mix, by copping the scholastic award for the sorority with the best overall academic standing.

President

Twenty-three men were initiated into the Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Delta Gamma Social Fraternity this year as the brothers completed their thirty-fourth year at Loyola. Previous to 1932 it was the local fraternity, Delta Phi Sigma.

ADG distinguished itself at the spring convocation by winning the University Academic Award as the fraternity with the highest overall quality point average. This was the second straight year that the fraternity had taken the award.

The brothers teamed with Kappa Beta Gamma Sorority for homecoming. Their display, entitled "Brew the Bengals", showed a huge cauldron with the suffering tigers, LSU mascots, inside.

ADG figured prominently in all facets of the intramural program.

Socially, the men of ADG met often for their many parties, including their traditional Purple Passion Party, and their Winter and Spring Formals.

KENNETH KLEIN

Beggars Fraternity, the oldest at Loyola, completed its forty-third year on the St. Charles Street campus. This year 14 new members were inducted.

As in the past, Beggars crammed their social calendar with various theme parties, vat parties, and their Winter and Spring formals.

Athletically, Beggars participated in all aspects of the intramural program, and this year placed first among the four fraternities in football.

For it's homecoming contribution, the Men of Beggars teamed with Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority, creating a display entitled "Sleigh the Tigers." Santa and his reindeer were depicted doing just that to the helpless LSU mascots.

Founded with the aim of enriching the lives of its members in co-operation with the university, the fraternity engaged in several charitable services during the year.

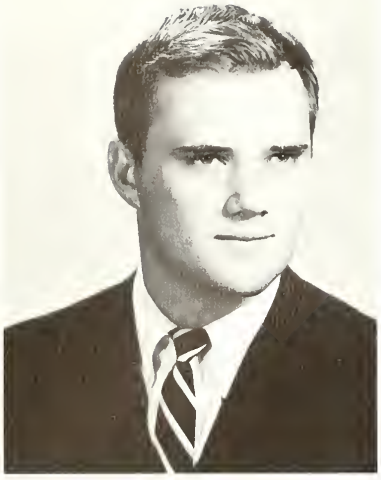
Sigma Alpha Kappa



MICHAEL WINTERS
President

The Brothers of Sigma Alpha Kappa enjoyed their Forty-third year at Loyola. SAK was one of the first two fraternities to be chartered on the campus.

It was a busy year for the SAKs, participating in many university functions and getting together socially. For the Student-Faculty "Apple Polisher" Bazaar, the brothers set up a miniature gambling casino. Homecoming found the fraternity erecting a display entitled "Tyger, Tyger, Burning Bright." The decoration, which SAK built in conjunction with Phi Phi Phi sorority, depicted the torturing of the LSU Tigers in a medieval setting, and was located in the horseshoe on St. Charles Street.

The Brothers of SAK also participated in the Jambalaya Songfest Competition, lampooning Loyola traditions with song.

SAK was active socially also, and could be found throughout the year at its many theme parties, its Rush Formal and Spring Formal, and other get-togethers.

The brothers participated in all facets of the intramural program and placed second among fraternities in football.

Upsilon Beta Lambda selected 25 new members for entrance into its brotherhood during its 42nd year at Loyola.

As in the past, UBLs could be found living their policy of devotion to school and community: members joined pledges in church-census-taking efforts. In April, the fraternity gave its annual Orphans' Picnic.

UBL also continued its tradition of providing means for the development in its members of several qualities. Creativity: UBLs garnered a winning banner for the sixth straight year in Blue Key Talent Night competition, composed and sang satirical songs for Jambalaya competition and won first place. School spirit: UBL has won the School Spirit award every year since the honor was inaugurated. Athletic talent and sportsmanship: the brothers participated in all phases of the intramural program, and placed first among fraternities in softball, boxing, and swimming. Leadership: members include presidents and vice-presidents of the Student Council and Student Union, Editors of the Wolf, and president of Spiritus. And last but not least, Hell-Raising: the Brothers are well-known for their weekly parties, picnics, their annual Blue and Gold Formal, and their University-wide Shipwreck Dance.

Miss Wolf 1967

Lauralee Horil

The ideal Loyola coed is pleasing to the eye, easy to talk to, responsible in any position of leadership and outstanding in academics. The ideal Loyola coed is Miss Wolf. And Miss Wolf 1967 is Lauralee Horil.

Laura, an accounting major in the College of Business Administration, is all of these things and much more for she has spent four years of unselfish service to her University and its entire student body. As a result she has received such honors as Business Administration's Outstanding Freshman Coed, 1964; the Ahearn Award, 1965; membership in Cardinal Key, 1965; appointment to Beta Gamma Sigma Honorary Business Fraternity, 1965; Rose of Delta Sigma Pi, 1965-67; Scabbard and Blade Sponsor, 1965; Campus Court Maid and Who's Who. To enumerate the staggering list of organizations in which this 5'1" brunette from the Crescent City has participated would be impossible as they would include everything from Phi Chi Theta and LSL, to Theta Phi Alpha and the Student Union. But one thing that is possible is a declaration of how much Laura has offered the University: friendship, loyalty, example, humility and most of all, herself.

Mary Ann Sterck

Campus Queen

Sally Ann Droppelman

The quiet, shining beauty of Sally Droppelman has once again captured the hearts of Loyola as she returns to the Court as Campus Queen 1966-67. To decide whether Loyolans chose this blue-eyed blonde strictly for her beauty or for her personality would never be possible, for Sally embodies so much of both that no one would bother to try.

Sally has also earned a name for herself as a worker on Loyola's campus. She is an active participant in almost every phase of college life. She is a member of Theta Phi Alpha, the Panhellenic Council, the Women's Residence Council, the National Collegiate Association of Secretaries, the Student Union and has received the honor of being chosen an ROTC Sponsor and Sweetheart of Alpha Delta Gamma 1966.

A senior administrative practices major in the College of Business Administration, Sally is from Louisville, Kentucky.

Campus Maid

Sue Breaud

All the grace and loveliness of the South has certainly been captured in returning Campus Maid Sue Breaud. This 5'4" brown-eyed brunette displays the beauty and culture that can mean nothing but New Orleans, where she was born and reared.

Sue, one of four children, is an elementary education major and has been active in such organizations as Theta Phi Alpha, LSL and the Elementary Education Club. In addition to these, Sue has been an ROTC sponsor, a member of the Freshman Sweetheart Court 1965 and an honor student for three years.

Campus Maid

Diane David

This has been a truly wonderful year in the life of junior Campus Maid Diane David. Diane, who hails from the Crescent City, has not only made an appearance on the Campus Court but is an ROTC Sponsor and the Sweetheart of Sigma Alpha Kappa.

Besides being a Campus beauty, Diane, an English major, has also been an active contributor to the organizational life on Loyola's campus for she participates in such groups as Theta Phi Alpha, LSL, and the Hospitality Committee of the Student Union.

Campus Maid

Janie Maher

A special look and a very special personality are only two of the qualities that have placed returning Campus Maid Janie Maher on every court of beauty since she arrived at Loyola in the fall of 1964.

Janie, only 5'2" tall, is small of stature, but possesses the energy of someone 10' tall. The brown-eyed New Orleanian is treasurer of LSL, a student council representative, sixth regimental sponsor for the Pershing Rifles and an administrative practices major in the College of Business Administration.

Campus Maid

Mary Ann Sterck

Miami's loss is Loyola's gain when it comes to returning Campus Maid Mary Ann Sterck. It is safe to assume that if all Florida girls had the good fortune to resemble Mary Ann, Loyola would witness a mass exodus to the Sunshine State.

A secondary education major, Mary Ann has appeared on the two previous Homecoming Courts, is this year's Little Colonel, and corresponding secretary of Theta Phi Alpha Social Sorority.

Campus Maid

Cheri Weil

Making her first appearance on a Campus Beauty Court, and probably not her last, is junior medical technologist Cheri Weil. This 5'7" native New Orleanian has caught the eyes of Loyola and especially those of Alpha Delta Gamma as she was chosen a Campus Maid and ADG Sweetheart.

Cheri is also an outstanding example of Loyola spirit since she is involved in such activities as the Student Union, Tri Phi, ADT, and the Women's Recreation Association. Active and personable, she certainly enhances the atmosphere of college life.

Campus Maid

Audrey Coleman

Lovely Audrey Coleman is this year's contribution to the Campus Court from Loyola's Evening Division. Audrey, though plagued with frequent illness in the past year, has remained one of the night school's most popular and most active members. She has served on the Student Council, the Evening Division Social Service Organization and holds a full-time position with New Orleans Public Service Incorporated. A sociology major, Audrey is a fine example of the spirited night school student body.

Beryl Ferrara

Freshman Sweetheart

Sparkling brown eyes and a radiant smile are but two of the features that comprise the exquisite beauty of Beryl Ferrara, Freshman Sweetheart 1967. A 5'1" brunette from New Orleans, Beryl is one of three children and a marketing major in the College of Business Administration.

Besides possessing an elegant charm, Beryl excels not only in beauty but also in spirit. Her activities can definitely be cited to prove this point. She was captain of the Wolfettes, a member of Spiritus and was chosen earlier this year as an ROTC Sponsor. She reigned as Freshman Class Favorite at the annual Sweetheart Cotillion and will long remain in the minds of all who watched her receive her crown.

One look at this year's Little Colonel, Mary Ann Sterck, would make any cadet happy to be in ROTC. For this campus beauty is the possessor of a shining look and glowing personality that makes any male turn about face.

Beauty is not all that is outstanding about Mary Ann, since, in her four years at Loyola, she has spent a great amount of time in giving service to the University. By taking part in the activities of Theta Phi Alpha as Best Pledge, Panhellenic Representative and Corresponding Secretary, she has shown her willingness to work for the good of her sorority. But her interest has not stopped there for she has been on the Student Union Hospitality Committee for three years, a member of LSL, and for two consecutive years, the Pershing Rifles Sponsor.

Mary Ann, an import from Miami, Florida, is a 5'4" blonde majoring in secondary education.

Coach Greene explains necessary changes in strategy to varsity members

Head Coach Ron Greene

When Ron Greene took on the task of trying to cure Loyola's basketball ills this fall, no one expected miracles. But Greene and his "Loyola men don't lose" philosophy soon proved the critics wrong. Although the Pack was small, they out-hustled their opponents and compiled a 12-10 season record.

Coach Greene, in his second year with Loyola, is a graduate of Murray State Kentucky where he was a varsity starter for three years. He was named to the All-Ohio Valley Conference team, and was captain of Murray's team and most valuable player at Murray in his senior year.

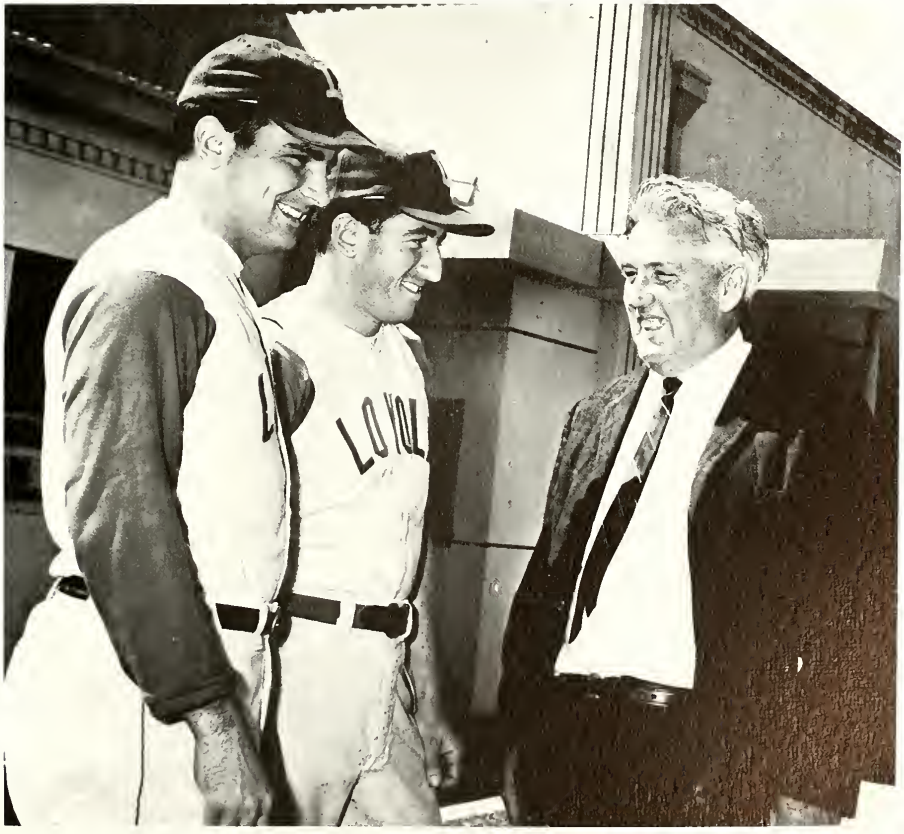
After serving two years with the Army, Greene came to Loyola where, after a year as assistant under Bill Gardiner, he moved up to head coach.

Baseball Coach Rags Scheuermann

When Louis "Rags" Scheuermann began his tenth season as Loyola baseball coach the prediction remained the same—another winning season. No one seemed to doubt his word because of the talent abundant on this year's squad. With veterans Vic Hughes, Howie Maestri and Ray Culotta around, the chances for a good season were excellent.

No matter how tough the schedule may seem to many, this has never bothered "Rags." In his nine previous seasons at Loyola Coach Rags has had only one losing season. In compiling such a record his teams have attracted numerous pro scouts, with many of his pupils signing for sizable bonuses.

Coach Scheuermann discusses the season with co-captains Vic Hughes and Tony Bianca



Athletic Director Bill Gardiner

Athletic director and associate coach Bill Gardiner completed his twelfth year at Loyola this season. Gardiner stepped down as head coach of the Wolfpack this season to serve as athletic director and chief advisor to new head coach Ron Greene.

Coach Gardiner is married and the father of four children. The oldest, Jim is a dental student at Loyola.

Al Weddle Freshmen Coach

Freshmen coach Al Weddle, in his second year as boss of the Wolfpups, continued to build winning teams. In his first year the team compiled a 13-1 record. This season his Wolfpups again came up with a winning season.

Coach Weddle is a 1964 graduate of Loyola. A native of New Orleans, Weddle played his high school ball at Jesuit.

The 23-year-old freshman coach ranks as one of the youngest and most successful college coaches in the country.

'Tiny' Tunis

Someone must treat minor ailments and set up training programs before, during and after the season. Loyola's "someone" is Angelo 'Tiny' Tunis.

Tiny, a baseball trainer since 1946, has been with Greensboro, Charleston, Indianapolis and the New Orleans Pelicans in addition to his duties with the Wolfpack.

"Loyola Men Don't Lose"

New Loyola coach Ron Greene started the 1966-67 season with a new idea—"Loyola men don't lose"—and sprang the Wolfpack to seven straight victories, one loss, then four more wins, including the riotous 83-76 victory over OCU's Chiefs in the only televised game of the year.

The Pack scored only one win in February, as Lady Luck abandoned Loyola's 27-year-old coach, when he lost five players, two of them starters.

Even though dropping seven of the eight February games, and ending with only one senior, John Erb, the young Wolfpack almost added Miami to its upsets—by showing the same hustle used to upend the Spartans during the first semester.

Pack Starts Fast, Wins 7 In A Row

The 1966-67 Wolfpack season started off at a fast pace, with an opening game win over Spring Hill 58-51. The Wolves then made it two in a row by dumping Texas Christian 91-75 at home. Then came a thrilling 87-86 win over LSU followed by routine wins over Christian Brothers 87-71 and The Citadel 97-87.

The big surprise of the season came when the Pack defeated third-ranked Michigan State 74-70 before 5,500 home fans. Following the Michigan State game the Pack downed Washington 88-87. With a 7-0 record the Wolves broke for the Christmas holidays. Following the vacation, the Pack headed to the Queen City Invitational where it lost to Fairfield 86-68, but came back with a 87-66 win over Seton Hall. The Pack then headed west where it defeated Pepperdine 72-70 and St. Mary's 76-71 to end the first half of the season with a 10-1 record.

Pack Tops OCU, 83-76

The second half of the season started with a riotous 83-76 win over OCU which saw the fans empty onto the court for a three-minute brawl. Then came three consecutive losses: Memphis State 76-50, Spring Hill 53-51 and La Salle 125-80. The Pack rallied to dump Birmingham Southern 87-75, but then dropped a heart-breaker to Miami 68-66.

Returning home the Pack lost two more, one to Memphis State 52-46 and another to Dayton 101-71. The Pack then hit the road to meet OCU for the second time and was beaten 98-73 by the Chiefs. In the last home game of the season the Pack dropped another heartbreaker, this time to Southeastern La. 80-78. The Wolves travelled to Houston for the season finale where they were beaten 106-64.

For the second straight year, Loyola has some local talent from the New Orleans area playing on the Wolfpups that is sure to make its mark on the varsity teams of the future. Glenn Goodier and Earl Butler have provided a powerful one-two punch for the Wolfpups this season. Goodier is averaging 19.5 points per game and Butler 24.5 per game. These two forwards led the Wolfpups to another winning season with the assistance of ace rebounder Lee Frazier and fiery guard Chuck Abadie.

The Wolfpups, coached by young Al Weddle have given Loyola fans a preview of the great things to come.

Ken Sanders seems to radiate victory, as he instructs Pack end Danny Toppino

Two unbeaten seasons in a row! That's Loyola's Football Club, which was finally scored on, but after three games the point total is Wolfpack 83, opponents 6.

This year was the second in 38 that the Maroon and Gold has taken to the gridiron—and 66 percent of the games have been against the blue and silver of LSUNO's Privateers. This year's game, again played on a wet and windy day, ended victoriously for the Wolfpack, 20-6. It followed a 42-0 trouncing of Centenary College in Shreveport. A tentative game with Spring Hill of Mobile never came off.

Ken Sanders coached the team again this season, keeping his perfect record by stressing defense to the extent that the non-offensive boys held the Gents to minus 13 ground yards and plus 37 air yards, giving ground grudgingly to the Privateers. The defense even balanced the lone LSUNO TD with one of its own, a fumble recovery.

LONNIE BAXTER
President

In its second year of existence the Men's Intramural Board has proved to be of invaluable service in assisting Coach "Rags" Scheuermann in the handling of all sports in which Loyola men participate. The board has succeeded in eliminating many problems which have plagued intramurals for a long time due to inadequate facilities on the campus proper. Through their efforts, better equipment, referees, and facilities have been obtained for the intramural program.

The board consists of permanent members drawn from the four fraternities, the schools and ROTC with the president of the Student Council serving ex officio.

An independent team, the Wildmen, captured this year's football title, but had to rally near the end of the game to nip Beggars fraternity, 7-6.

Ron Sarrat fired a 40-yard pass to Mike Fernandez, then a conversion flip to Keith LaRose for the PAT, and the Audubon Park victory.

Charley Gray scored the game's only other tally on a 10-yard run in the first half. Erik Delarosa blocked the attempted PAT pass by Beggars quarterback Gray.

The school league champions ended the season with a 12-1-1 mark, and Beggars finished with an 8-3 record, losing to SAK twice, plus the championship game defeat.

This year was also the first in five that Alpha Delta Gamma fraternity didn't represent the Greeks against the independent school league titlist.

Coed Intramurals

TINA COADY
WRA Chairman

WRA

Tina Coady, A & S senior, served her second year as chairman of the 12-member board which governs coed intramural sports.

But a complete change occurred this year: the Coed Intramural Board became the Women's Recreation Association, with an expanded program.

In addition to swimming, tennis, volleyball, basketball, and softball, bowling, badminton and archery joined the perennial university favorite pumpkin bowl.

Pumpkin Bowl Ends In 6-6 Tie

The spirited Hellcats fought the experienced Heavenly Scents to a 6-6 tie in this year's Pumpkin Bowl game.

Sheryl Derbis caught a pass from Mary Ann Batinich to score for the Scents. The Hellcats' touchdown was scored on a short pass to Mimi Chambers.

Gail Albritton and Mary Ann Batinich, both of the Heavenly Scents, were chosen the game's most valuable players.

Loyola Alumni Association

I. A. "TIM" TIMMRECK

To mobilize behind Loyola the full strength of our organized alumni support—this is the purpose to which the Alumni Association is dedicated.

Graduates of Loyola automatically become members of the Alumni Association. The first year's dues are remitted through courtesy of the Association. As Alumni you will receive during each year four issues of "Men of the South," the official alumni publication, copies of the several issues of "The Loyola Report" and invitations to the various alumni activities during the year. However, the greatest opportunity and the greatest satisfaction that an alumnus can hope for stem from his participation in building a greater Loyola University.

Each year there are several days of Homecoming activities including honoring our fifty-year grads and those of twenty-five years as well as other events, all culminating in the Homecoming Ball at which the elected campus queen and her court preside in royal dignity and are escorted in. the Grand March by members of the class of twenty-five years ago. Other events are sponsored by the association during the year for the university, the students and the alumni.

Loyola Student Union Governing Board

Union Officers and members of the administration get to know each other better at a cocktail party

Largest organization on campus and "living room" of the University, the Student Union provides for the cultural, recreational and social needs of the students. Composed of a Board of Governors and nine committees, Dance and Entertainment, Recreation, Current Events, Fine Arts, Hospitality, WOLF radio station, Personnel, Publicity and Public Relations, all aspects of student life are amply fulfilled. TGIF's, a lecture by Rep. T. Hale Boggs and daily news and feature broadcasts highlighted this year's activities. With the advent of a beer parlor in the basement next semester and an influx of creative ideas, next year's future promises to be better than ever.

Jim Brice tires to figure out one of the questions in the "call-in" broadcast

After a two week trial period at the end of second semester in 1966, WOLF radio showed itself a valuable part of campus life. Telephone participation programs, live broadcasts of Wolfpack road basketball games, and completely live broadcasting activities seven days a week made WOLF a driving force on campus.

Station manager Jeff Sinclair and program director Louis Castaing kept the ship afloat despite limited funds, technical difficulties, and sometimes less than dependable staff members.

Wolfettes

Adding spirit and a lot of class to the basketball season, Loyola's Wolfettes entertain at half-time with the best of precision dancing. These Freshman girls, selected on the basis of looks and talent, are proud of their efforts and always seem to encourage a special sort of student interest when they appear.

This past year these active Frosh were also allowed to perform at "away" games where they displayed the talent and activity that has helped Loyola to grow in the respect of the collegiate world. All will agree that this precision chorus adds not only to the prestige of the University but to the atmosphere also.

Toward a wiser world

To further the ambition of young men and women who may hold the world's future within their grasp has always been the high hope and purpose of Loyola University of the South, as it has been part of the Whitney's goal since 1883. We salute the contribution that Loyola has made in developing young men and women whose vision, courage and hard work are helping to build a wiser world.

IT'S FINISHED! What more can we say. We tried our best and have strived to present the best possible representation of Loyola 1967.

Special thanks go to Lindalee Horil and Jim Maniaci, both of whom made the last all-nighter with us even though they had no regular staff position. Chris Cloney and Paul Muncey also lasted out the night with us and they were there to do what ever was needed.

Mary Fiser, our Favorites Editor, also deserves a special vote of thanks. Her good humor and patience carried us through many long nights. Diane Donovan, who started out as a picture filer and wound up as Class Editor, did an excellent job. Guy Labatut, the Organizations Editor, did a very fine job also and deserves a lot of credit. Last but definitely not least is Bill Voigt, our Assistant Editor and Sports Editor all rolled into one. Bill was always there at the right time with a good word or a little advice. He made the job much more enjoyable and, with him around, even the most trying times became easier to bear.

It was a good year; it was a fun year. But we're glad it's over.
